Greetings from the Elders,

As always, WELCOME to each of you! If you are visiting with us today, please allow us an opportunity to get acquainted before you leave. We appreciate very much having you worship with us today. We also invite you to stay for our Bible study after our morning service. We have classes for all age groups and our teachers are dedicated to their work and service. We feel strongly that we are all blessed immensely by our study of God's word together!

Congratulations to all who have or will be graduating soon from various grade levels. It is always an exciting time to move from one phase in life to the next. Such accomplishments should be recognized. They are the result of much hard work and a determination to succeed. Many times personal sacrifices and difficult decisions had to be made along the way. Life will continue to be full of many challenges and opportunities that require such thoughtfulness. Also, congratulations to those who "survived" their first year of college....keep on keeping on and enjoy your break.

It is no secret that parents and grandparents always want the best in life for their children. We go to great lengths to see that they "prepare" themselves to be successful. We try to help, encourage and motivate them, as best we can, all along the way so that they are not "left behind" the rest. Many parents have been through pre-school, elementary school, junior high, and high school multiple times, but only graduated ONCE. I'm sure you know what I mean. At some point, however, there comes a time when they leave the nest and fly on their own.

Hopefully, as parents, we go to the same great lengths to see that we help our children "prepare" for the "next life" because it is eternal. It is our duty (Prov. 22:6 & Eph. 6:4)! We don't want them "left behind". We must instill in them, while we can, the same sense of hard work and determination to succeed spiritually. Again, sometimes personal sacrifices and difficult decisions have to be made along the way, but great is the gain.

The certificates of completion, diplomas and degrees we receive from our schools and colleges are nice recognitions of our accomplishments here on earth, but the "crown of righteousness" given by our Lord himself, lasts forever.

In Him,
Bob
